

Joseph Miller serves as the Vice President for Enrollment at LaGrange College (LaGrange, GA), overseeing the offices of College Access & Admissions, and Financial Aid & Affordability while serving on the President's Cabinet.

Having previously served at Huntingdon College (Montgomery, AL); Miller brings over 18 years of knowledge in strategic enrollment management, admissions, recruitment and marketing, and financial aid awarding and leveraging strategies in regional higher education. Miller has led enrollment and marketing plans that have grown undergraduate enrollment by over 15% at LaGrange College with growth in graduate programs exceeding 80%.

He is a regular presenter, contributor, and researcher to articles and workshops on enrollment management and involving partnerships in student recruitment and retention. Most recently, Miller presented "Demographic Disruption – Forecasting Emerging Trends in Student Populations" in October 2019 for the Georgia Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admission Officers (GACRAO) regional conference in Young Harris, GA, as well as having co-presented with Jon McGee, author of "Breakpoint: The Changing Marketplace for Higher Education" (Johns Hopkins University Press, 2015) at the 30th annual National Small College Enrollment Conference in July 2019 in Raleigh, NC.

He lives in LaGrange, GA, with his wife, Melissa, and three children: Anna Claire, Jonah, and Camp.