Announcements:
- Harassment/discrimination training: There's a different training video from HR now, and we're still working on getting the earlier Title IX training to count for it for people who have already done that.
- After-midsemester classes: Still very popular, and we're still working on how to prioritize the students who want to get in.
- Inauguration: One poster per Program (not department); we need posters by next Tuesday.

Gen Ed discussion:
- The chairs reported back about their department-level discussions of the proposed changes to the general education program. Most faculty seemed supportive of making the general education courses less prescribed by each major. The reaction to the lack of changes to the core was mixed, and there was some discussion about how transfer credit works for those courses. There was additional discussion about how the elimination of the logic/language requirement and the reduction in the number of hours in the humanities/social sciences requirement will affect CAS in particular, and whether or not the college-level requirements should be modified in light of this change.
