Welcome to AAMS/PLSC 319: Race and Ethnic Politics in the United States. According to the late Dr. Linda Faye Williams, a politics centered on race has characterized the U.S. since its birth as a republic. Students enrolled in this class will develop a thorough understanding of the significance of race and ethnicity in American politics and policymaking. Rooted in theories of race, racism, and political economy, the course considers relevant historical background, the constitutional framework of American government, and the nature of interactions between whites, blacks, Latinos/as, Asian and Pacific Islanders, and Indian peoples and the main institutions of government.

Furthermore, the course focuses on the role and participation of racial and ethnic groups in American politics as well as the role of political parties, independent organizations, and social movements. In the process, students will come to understand the long struggle of excluded groups to gain full inclusion in the American political community. Lastly, the intersections of race, class, and gender are a concomitant focus of the course.

This course contributes to the mastery of the following university-level competencies (ULCs):

3. Winthrop University graduates understand the interconnected nature of the world and the time in which they live.
   Winthrop graduates value integrity, perceive moral dimensions, and achieve excellence. They take seriously the perspectives of others, practice ethical reasoning, and reflect on experiences. Winthrop graduates have a sense of responsibility to the broader community and contribute to the greater good.

4. Winthrop University graduates communicate effectively.
   Winthrop graduates communicate in a manner appropriate to the subject, occasion, and audience. They create texts – including but not limited to written, oral, and visual presentations – that convey content effectively. Mindful of their voice and the impact of their communication, Winthrop graduates successfully express and exchange ideas.

Finally, the course is part of the Global Learning Initiative by its very nature, as students will have “local, regional, national and/or international experiences” that may differ from their own culture. Moreover, no matter what race/ethnicity a student is, s/he will encounter information about other races/ethnicities in this course.

Prerequisites: AAMS 300, or PLSC 201 with a grade of C or better, or permission of instructor.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the close of the term, students will be able to think analytically about the experiences and influence of racial and ethnic groups in the American political system. More specifically, students will be able to identify and analyze:

1. The core concepts and themes of racial and ethnic politics in the United States.
2. The historical evolution of “We the People” and the struggles of racial and ethnic minority groups to gain inclusion in the American political community.
3. The characteristics, strategies, and trends of American political behavior.
4. The role and significance of minority elected officials and independent organizations.
5. The continued significance of race in American government and politics.

Lastly, at the conclusion of the semester students will have acquired sufficient knowledge to carry out future work in the study of race and ethnicity, both in the United States and abroad.

REQUIREMENTS AND GUIDELINES

It is my sincere hope that each student will do well in the course. For this to happen, students must live up to the responsibilities and requirements outlined in this syllabus. Therefore, each student must:

1. Complete the readings prior to the class in which the material will be discussed.

2. Attend lectures. Attendance is not required. The lectures, however, are designed to build upon the assigned readings—they do not simply regurgitate the textbooks. Moreover, regular attendance and thorough lecture notes will be two of your most valuable resources for the examinations. Thus, it will be to your advantage to attend all class meetings.

3. Participate in making the class a productive learning experience for all.

4. Ask questions.

5. Show sensitivity and respect for your colleagues and the instructor. This includes turning off all cell phones and/or pagers. (Note: I will answer your phone if it rings. Also, if you are caught sending a text message, then you will be summarily dismissed. Ask about me.) For more details, please see the College of Arts and Science Policy for Appropriate Use of Hand-held and Wireless Technology.
6. Hand in assignments on the date they are due. Please note that a late assignment will be penalized one full letter grade for each day that it is overdue.

7. Take examinations on the date that they are scheduled. A student who fails to take an exam on the scheduled date—and who also fails to offer proper documentation to explain her or his situation—will take a make-up exam entirely comprised of essay questions. In addition, any unauthorized use of personal electronic devices—including but not limited to cell phones—during examinations will be taken as prima facie evidence of academic misconduct. I will immediately confiscate the examination of any student caught using such devices. The student will not be permitted to complete the test and the incident will be reported to University authorities.

8. Inform the instructor of any concerns.

9. Make suggestions on how the course could be improved.

10. Abide by the Winthrop University Code of Conduct.

Required Readings

Paula D. McClain and Joseph Stewart Jr., “Can’t We All Get Along?” Racial and Ethnic Minorities in American Politics, 6th Edition

You can purchase the textbooks at the Bookworm or other fine bookstores or online vendors. Additional readings will be available via Blackboard, the Internet, or placed on reserve at Dacus Library.

Student Learning Activities, Evaluation, and Grading System

Students will participate in the following learning activities and will be evaluated and graded based on the criteria described below:

1. Class Participation (10%): Participation includes raising relevant questions, answering relevant questions, and, from time to time, taking part in in-class assignments or exercises.

2. Quizzes (10%): Quizzes will be both announced and unannounced. Be prepared.

3. Examinations (60%): There will be three examinations, each worth 20 percent of your final grade. Students must take exams when they are scheduled on the syllabus. Tests will begin at the appointed time and will be a combination of essay, short answer, and multiple-choice questions.

4. Writing Assignments (20%): Each student will write a term paper. To jumpstart the project, you will submit a 2- to 3-page paper proposal on Thursday, February 6. The proposal will include a description of the topic and its relevance to the study of race and ethnic politics, research question, thesis, outline, and a list of references. The proposal is an ungraded requirement. However, a student who fails to submit a proposal will be penalized on her/his final paper. The research paper must be 15 pages (no more, no less) and include a bibliography or “work cited” page that shall list no fewer than 15 sources.
Both writing assignments must be typed, double-spaced, stapled, and have standard margins and consecutively numbered pages. (Note: A cover sheet and/or reference page will not count toward the allotted number of pages.) Please do not use a font smaller than Times New Roman 12.

Note that the following sources are inappropriate for the assignment: Wikipedia, About.com, Infoplease.com, Spark Notes, or other online sources not vetted by an editor or peer reviewed (blogs, personal websites, and the like are examples); encyclopedias; textbooks. Instead, look to better sources such as Opposing Viewpoints in Context, the Pew Research Center, Gallup, Jstor, and Google Scholar.

Finally, students must upload their papers to TurnItIn.com. I will penalize assignments that fail to adhere to these basic guidelines.

Grading:

A 93-100 = A  Designates work of superior quality
     90-92 = A-  Class participation is voluntary, frequent, relevant, and reflects that you have both read and thought about the material. Performance on exams is consistently strong; demonstrates complete mastery of facts and concepts. Written work is clear, well-organized and thought-provoking, and free of grammatical or mechanical errors.

B 87-89 = B+  Designates work of high quality
     83-86 = B  Class participation is voluntary, frequent, and reflects that you are keeping up with the assigned materials. Performance on exams is very strong; demonstrates mastery of facts and concepts. Written work reflects a good understanding of the issues and concepts. Writing is clear with minimal errors.

C 77-79 = C+  Designates work that minimally meets the course requirements
     73-76 = C  Class participation is occasional and/or rarely voluntary, with comments that reveal only a superficial grasp of issues and concepts. Performance on exams demonstrates acceptable degree of mastery of facts and concepts. Written work may contain arguments that are confusing, with minimal evidence of organization. Writing is marred by errors.

D 67-69 = D+  Reflects minimal clarity and comprehension
     63-66 = D  Class participation is minimal, never voluntary, and reveals that you have either not read the assigned materials or did not understand the readings. Performance on exams demonstrates minimal mastery of facts and concepts. Written work is confusing, contradictory, repetitive, and/or not supported by either your own ideas or your sources. Writing is marred by errors.

F 0-59 = F  Unsatisfactory performance along most (or all) measures.

The “N” Grade Issue:

This semester, the deadline to withdraw from a course with an automatic grade of “N” is Wednesday, March 12. Students may not withdraw from the course after this date without documented extenuating circumstances.

INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT SERVICES

Academic Success Center (ASC)
Winthrop’s Academic Success Center is a free resource for all undergraduate students seeking to perform their best academically. The ASC offers a variety of personalized and structured resources that help students become effective and efficient learners. The services available to students are as follows: peer tutoring, academic skill development (test taking strategies, time management counseling, and study techniques), group and individual study spaces, and academic coaching. The ASC is located in University College on the first floor of Dinkins Hall, Suite 106. Please contact the ASC at (803) 323-3929 or success@winthrop.edu.

Dacus Library
Not everything can be found online. Dacus Library is the primary on-campus provider of scholarly information in all forms from print to electronic. To fulfill its mission, the library provides information quickly, efficiently, and in sufficient depth to promote excellence in all academic programs offered by the university. Additionally, the library maintains depository status for federal and state publications. For information on library hours call (803) 323-2362.

The Writing Center
Students who wish to improve their writing skills should seek assistance from the Writing Center, located at 242 Bancroft. Tutors works with students on an individual basis in all phases of the writing process and on academic and writing projects in any discipline. Call (803) 323-2138 for information regarding hours of operation and services.

The Office of Disability Services (ODS)
Winthrop University is dedicated to providing access to education. If you have a disability and require specific accommodations to complete this course, then contact the Office of Disability Services at (803) 323-3290. Once you have your official notice of accommodations from ODS, please inform me as early as possible in the semester.
The Office of Nationally Competitive Awards (ONCA)
ONCA identifies and assists highly motivated and talented students to apply for nationally and internationally competitive awards, scholarships, fellowships, and unique opportunities both at home and abroad. ONCA gathers and disseminates award information and deadlines across the campus community, and serves as a resource for students, faculty, and staff throughout the nationally competitive award nomination and application process. ONCA is located in Dinkins 222A. Please fill out an online information form at the bottom of the ONCA webpage and email onca@winthrop.edu for more information.

The Office of Victims Assistance
The Office of Victims Assistance (OVA) provides services to survivors of sexual assault, intimate partner violence, and stalking as well as educational programming to prevent these crimes from occurring. The staff assists all survivors, regardless of when they were victimized in obtaining counseling, medical care, housing options, legal prosecution, and more. In addition, the OVA helps students access support services for academic problems resulting from victimization. The OVA is located in 204 Crawford and can be reached at (803) 323-2206. In the case of an after-hours emergency, please call Campus Police at (803) 323-3333, or the local rape crisis center, Safe Passage, at their 24-hour hotline, (803) 329-2800.

ACADEMIC HONESTY AND INTEGRITY

The Student Conduct Code notes, “A fundamental tenet of all institutions of higher learning is academic honesty. Academic work must depend upon respect for an acknowledgement of the research and ideas of others. Misrepresentation of someone else’s work as one’s own is a most serious offense in any academic setting.” Winthrop University is no exception. In short, academic integrity is very important and misconduct, in any form, will not be condoned. If you have any questions regarding academic honesty and student conduct, please review Section V of the Student Conduct Code.

Political Science Department Statement on Plagiarism and Academic Misconduct

The Winthrop University Political Science department abhors all forms of academic misconduct, and faculty members aggressively investigate all incidents of suspected cheating. This includes, but is not limited to, using turnitin.com.

Plagiarism, whether intentional or unintentional, is by far the most common form of academic misconduct in the Political Science department. Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to:

- Using the words or ideas of others as one’s own;
- Reproducing, in whole or in part, principal ideas from a fellow student’s work;
- Granting a fellow student permission to copy one’s paper, or to reproduce some or all of its principal ideas;
- Quoting or paraphrasing material from sources without any citation;
- Quoting or paraphrasing material without sufficient and/or proper citation;
- Omitting some or all sources used in a paper; and
- Submitting a paper written for one course – whether in Political Science or another discipline – to meet a course requirement in a second course, without the express permission of all instructors involved. This is the case even though many paper topics may be relevant to several different courses.

All incidents of suspected academic misconduct are investigated with equal vigor.

When a faculty member suspects that a student engaged in academic misconduct, the faculty member will follow the appropriate procedures outlined in the Student Handbook. The faculty member will apply whatever sanctions s/he deems appropriate. Possible sanctions include, but are not limited to:
• Failing the assignment;
• Requiring a student to repeat an assignment for reduced credit;
• Requiring a student to repeat an assignment for no credit; or
• Failing the course.

Academic misconduct applies equally to required assignments and extra credit assignments.

All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Department Chair, the Dean of Students, the Dean of Arts and Sciences and the student’s academic advisor. The University may impose its own sanctions in addition to sanctions imposed by the faculty member or the department. The University may impose sanctions even after a student has graduated, and may include revoking a student’s diploma.

In addition, students who engage in more than one incident of academic misconduct may be declared ineligible for departmental awards, ineligible for employment in the department or its affiliated programs, and ineligible to volunteer as a peer advisor.

*As a member of the Political Science faculty, I will abide by these guidelines.
