

Winthrop Sociologists are...

- Problem Solvers
  - Whether in human resources, city planning, or social services, our majors understand the causes and consequences of major social issues and are able to make informed business and public policy recommendations. They are also trained to work in teams to find solutions.
- Social Justice Advocates
  - Whether working with at-risk youths, mentoring young girls, or managing a corporation, our majors have cultural competency skills, understand diverse perspectives, and advocate for equal rights. They have a deep understanding of the causes and consequences of social inequalities and are prepared to promote positive social change.
- Research Specialists
  - Whether performing data analytics for a large corporation, or doing legal research for a firm, our majors have experience digging for answers and can construct a research project from start to finish. They can conduct interviews, run focus groups, practice field observations, do library research, construct surveys or analyze existing data sets.

What are Pure Sociology Majors Doing Now?

2018 grad- Endya Moten- Due Diligence and Research Specialist for Carolina Legal Associates

2017 grad- William Blake White HR Analytics Intern at the Hershey Company, Hershey Pennsylvania. Currently pursuing a MA in Labor and Industrial Relations at Cornell University.

2015 grad- Eboni Ford, Currently pursuing an MBA with a concentration in Public Policy

