WINTHROP UNIVERSITY
GALLERIES

A sampling of portfolio exchange projects – curated collections of digital and traditional print-based artworks, each united by concept, size, and/or cohort. These portfolios further the historical purpose of printmaking, to disseminate information to the masses. All participating artists agree to an edition size and to produce identical artworks to reach that number, each utilizing agreed upon traditional or experimental print techniques (screenprint, etching, digital, lithography, woodblock, etc). Works are then exchanged among participants, each artist receiving multiple new prints for their personal collections. Many of these works are in permanent collections and contain prominent names within the contemporary art community. This exhibition highlights diverse portfolios featuring global artists, and previous and current @PrintmakingWinthrop students.

Some works are available to purchase, in support of @PrintmakingWinthrop student travel and studio development.

January 17 – February 13
