 - Clarifying the types of events generally not approved for Cultural Events Credit.
 - Detailing the criteria and expectations for approved events.
 - Clarifying the attributes for lectures, panel discussions, and forums.
 - Clarifying the criteria for films.
- The revisions are in the supporting materials section

Academic Council

- Proposal from the Student Success & Retention Workgroup
 - Move the course withdrawal deadline from the 60% point to the 66% point in the semester.
 - Allows student to consult with advisor about withdrawal during the regular advising period.
 - Withdrawal decisions would still occur prior to the start of early registration.

Academic Council

- Proposal from the Registrar
 - Revise the policy for transferring work from other institutions following suspension.
 - Allow students to transfer credit earned at another institution while ineligible to enroll at Winthrop.
 - Gina did significant work looking at the policies of other institutions and found that most allow such transfer credit, and it is often beneficial to students to improve their academic skills.

Academic Council

- Proposal from the Registrar
- Relieve 2nd baccalaureate students of requirement to meet Winthrop University general education requirements.
- Added language
 - Meet all the major requirements for the second degree as determined by the Department Chair and Student Services Office in the college of the major.
 - The general education requirements completed in the first baccalaureate degree will meet the general education requirements for the second baccalaureate degree. Students may still need to complete needed course prerequisites for courses in the major.
- Rationale: Some students who pursue a second baccalaureate degree will have a prior degree from a previous institution. Those degree programs already included the completion of a general education program. The current policy allows the college to specify the courses needed to complete the second degree. Usually, this would include any missing general education courses – specifically HMXF and CRTW, and sometimes a physical activity course. Most students pursuing a second degree are changing careers and likely need at least 30 hours already. Additional general education courses create additional time to degree and cost for the student.

Academic Council

- Proposal from the Registrar / Financial Aid
 - Create Unearned F (UF) and Unearned U (UU) to facilitate tracking unofficial withdrawals by the Office of Financial Aid
 - UF— unearned F; Failure due to non-participation/non-attendance (no quality points)
 - UU— unearned U; Unsatisfactory due to non-participation/non-attendance
 - A last date of attendance will be required for these grades.
- Per Federal Financial Aid guidelines, if a student who began attendance and has not officially withdrawn fails to earn a passing grade in at least one course offered over an entire period, the institution must assume, for Title IV purposes, that the student has unofficially withdrawn, unless the institution can document that the student completed the period. In some cases, a school may use its policy for awarding or reporting final grades to determine whether a student who failed to earn a passing grade in any of his or her classes completed the period. Schools may implement an official grading policy that provides instructors with the ability to differentiate between those students who complete the course but failed to achieve the course objectives and those students who did not complete the course.
- Other institutions have such a non-attendance grade

Academic Council

- Proposal from the Registrar
 - Revise the Academic Forgiveness Policy
 - At the time of readmission to Winthrop, a student who has been absent for five calendar years or longer may choose to reenter under the “academic forgiveness policy.” ~~Under this policy, all courses previously taken at Winthrop University are treated as if they were transfer credit from another institution for purposes of granting credit toward graduation. As with transfer credit,~~ These earlier previous courses are not used in computing the student’s grade-point average. However, all earlier courses and the grades earned remain on the student’s official transcript and are counted in computing eligibility for academic honors. ~~The student must request exercise or waive the “academic forgiveness” through the Office of Records and Registration option before end of the first week of the second semester he or she is readmitted to Winthrop University.~~ Students who have already utilized all their repeat exemptions do not get additional repeat exemptions.
- Recently a student submitted a petition to include the courses forgiven in which they earned a grade of D. The petitions committee wondered why these courses were excluded. Currently under the Academic Forgiveness policy, all forgiven work is treated like transfer work, where only grades of C- or higher are accepted toward degree requirements. These courses do not count toward a student’s grade point average. This means that any other student who takes a course at Winthrop and earns a D can apply that course to their degree program (if the D is acceptable for the course), but a student asking for Academic Forgiveness cannot use any course with a D towards their degree requirements. The current Academic Forgiveness policy allows any course with a C- or better to be counted in the degree program and the grade is removed from the GPA. It is appropriate, then, that Academic Forgiveness be applied to all credits, and all courses with a passing grade be allowed to apply to the degree, unless the degree requires a specific grade. Losing credits is never in a student’s best interest.

Resolution to Consider from USC

WHEREAS state legislative proposals are being introduced across the United States that target academic discussions of racism and related issues in American history in schools, colleges and universities;

WHEREAS the Faculty Handbook (pp. 51-52) affirms the importance of academic freedom to the proper functioning of universities, citing the American Association of University Professors' 1940 statement of Principles on Academic Freedom and Tenure;

WHEREAS the Faculty Handbook also entitles faculty to freedom in research, in establishing curriculum, and classroom teaching;

WHEREAS the Carolinian Creed commits each member of this community to discouraging bigotry and learning from differences;

WHEREAS educating members of this community about systemic barriers to a broad-based and inclusive democracy that go beyond bigotry is central to living out the Carolinian Creed, and to the active and engaged pursuit of the knowledge required to be an informed citizen in the 21st century;

WHEREAS many critiques aimed at anti-oppression theoretical and pedagogical orientations that center on their alleged divisiveness seek to limit the freedom of educators to pursue legitimate educational and developmental ends, particularly those that originate with elected officials, media personalities, and other politicians outside the academy;

WHEREAS the University of South Carolina's Presidential Commission on University

History both acknowledges and confronts this university's history of race, gender, and other forms of oppression guided by principles of integrity, objectivity, accountability, and openness;

WHEREAS dozens of organizations, including the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the Association of American Colleges and Universities

(AACU), issued the Joint Statement on Legislative Efforts to Restrict Education about Racism and American History (June 16, 2021) stating their “firm opposition to a spate of legislative proposals being introduced across the country that target academic lessons, presentations, and discussions of racism and related issues in American history in schools, colleges and universities

. . . In higher education, under principles of academic freedom that have been widely endorsed, professors are entitled to freedom in the classroom in discussing their subject. Educators, not politicians, should make decisions about teaching and learning;”

WHEREAS in a nation that has for centuries struggled with various forms of social inequity and injustice, about which many members of this community lack adequate knowledge, the University of South Carolina has a specific and unique responsibility to educate and an opportunity to help build a society that values equity and social justice in both word and deed.

RESOLUTION:

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that Faculty Senate affirms the American Association of University Professors' (AAUP) Joint Statement on Efforts to Restrict Education about

Racism, authored by the AAUP, PEN America, the American Historical Association, and the Association of American Colleges & Universities, endorsed by dozens of organizations, and issued on June 16, 2021;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that Faculty Senate calls upon the U of SC President and Provost to also affirm the American Association of University Professors' (AAUP)

Joint Statement on Efforts to Restrict Education about Racism, authored by the AAUP, PEN

America, the American Historical Association, and the Association of American Colleges &

Universities, endorsed by dozens of organizations, and issued on June 16, 2021;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Faculty Senate stands with our K-12

colleagues throughout South Carolina and the nation who may be affected by pernicious legislation and other attacks on their academic freedom when they seek to teach racial histories and related issues in their courses.

Electron Transfer

$E_{\text{photon}} = 6.626 \times 10^{-34} \text{ J} \cdot \text{s} \cdot \nu$

Another fate for the excited electron is to move to a nearby molecule that has a lower excited state, a process called electron transfer.

Electron transfer results in photoinduced charge separation because the initial molecule is now positively charged and the molecule that accepted the electron is negatively charged.

- Separation of charge occurs at a site called the reaction center.

$2 \text{Na(s)} + 2 \text{OH}^-$

Energy level diagram illustrating electron transfer:

- Excited molecule (D) and Acceptor (A) are shown.
- Electron transfer occurs from D to A.
- The resulting state shows D⁺ and A⁻, indicating charge separation.
