South Carolina Schools Photography Competition

Lewandowski Student Gallery / McLaurin Hall / Winthrop University Galleries

This is the 5th annual competition, begun as a means for celebrating the photography created by South Carolina K-12 students.

As has been the case in past competitions, this year's submission is broad in approach to subject matter, and intriguing in what students see as of interest to photograph within their personal world. Full of energy and color, much of the work mirrors the age these students are. In some cases the results are self-reflective, while in others they are fine observations of the world outside the classroom. It is always difficult to make selections from the amount of entries we get, and have to leave out pictures which could have also enhanced the final exhibition. We are grateful to all those of you who entered, for your enthusiasm and imagination as applied to your creative camerawork. And we are extremely grateful to your teachers for the encouragement and expertise in helping you develop an eye for making pictorial sense of all that is in front of your camera.
