

The Winthrop Poll Findings

This survey includes respondents aged 18 years and older from SC

This survey includes responses from 837 respondents giving results which use all respondents a margin of error of +/- 3.39% at the 95% confidence level. Reported results using a subset of the entire sample will naturally have a higher margin of error.

For a full explanation of survey procedures, see the Methodology Statement.

[NOTE: For individual Approval ratings, respondents were not prompted with the party affiliation of the individual subject of the question]

[NOTE: Except for gubernatorial primary candidate favorability questions, party designations include “leaners,” those who first claim to be political independents, but admit to leaning toward one party. Research has repeatedly shown “leaners” to vote in a more consistently partisan manner than “weak” partisans in general elections. However, it is assumed that self-identified partisans are still most likely to participate in a primary, hence only their inclusion in the questions regarding gubernatorial primary candidates. Respondents who answered “something else” or refused the partisanship question are only included in the “All Respondents” columns.]

[NOTE: Favorability/Recognition numbers for all candidates currently vying for the Republican and Democratic gubernatorial nominations are listed below.

Respondents were not told that these individuals were running for their party's gubernatorial nomination, respondents were not told the current position held by each individual, and respondents were not told the partisan identification of each individual. The goal was to gauge the unprompted and unprimed recognition and favorability rating for each person. We hope, therefore, to obtain a true baseline. REMEMBER, a majority of Americans, according to many national polls over the years, cannot name their own House representative to the United States Congress (see "The Origin and Nature of Mass Opinion" by John Zaller)]

Understanding of Local Finances

[NOTE: Ask any City or County Manager and you will nearly universally be told that revenues collected from residential local taxes fail to cover the costs of residential services provided by local governments. However, this information does not appear to be widely known. Conversely, businesses often bear the brunt of the cost of services.]
